Quick Start

Revised: June 18, 2001

Last Reviewed: April 9, 2026

Adopted: April 3, 1986

POLICY:

A significant charge of the State Board is that of economic development of the State of Georgia. The State Board carries out this responsibility by delivering technical education and training services to Georgia citizens. Technical Colleges may provide such programs and services under the Board's jurisdiction or programs directly administered by the Board.

Training services conducted by Quick Start must be customized to meet the job's requirements. Also, such programs must be of high quality and conducted efficiently. Typically, the companies' involvement in providing technical expertise and other resources is essential for an efficient and effective outcome.

Each Quick Start project shall be preceded by an analysis as determined by the Deputy Commissioner to ensure that the project should be undertaken and to determine the level of services to be provided.

Each Quick Start project shall have a comprehensive "training needs assessment" before project funds or personnel commitment. This assessment should answer the question, "what needs to be done?" The needs assessment shall minimally include a definition and/or explanation of the following items:

- 1) Company characteristics and plans for Georgia.
- 2) Type and number of trainees.
- 3) Timelines.
- 4) Initial analysis of cost factors for training.

For each Quick Start project, a training plan shall be developed based on the training needs assessment.

Each Quick Start Project shall have a written training agreement that defines the relationships and obligations of all parties involved.

Each Quick Start project shall be evaluated during and after the training process. The purpose of these evaluations shall be to improve training delivery efficiency and effectiveness continually.

The Georgia Quick Start Program is intended to be supplemental to the regular programs offered by Technical Colleges.

The Commissioner shall develop guidelines to implement this policy.

The Commissioner shall report to the Board periodically on Quick Start activities.

Rationale:

The Quick Start Program is a significant activity that directly promotes the state's economic development. This program promotes economic development by training employees for jobs in new, expanding, or existing industries. Established by legislation known as the "Quick Start Act" and cited as O.C.G.A. §20-4-40 et seq, the law provides for the Quick Start Program to be Board-administered and authorizes considerable flexibility in the employment of personnel, contracting services, purchasing equipment, rental or lease of training facilities, and other activities essential in the planning, development, and conducting of Quick Start training services.

Quick Start's ultimate mission is to provide Georgians with job-specific training. The jobs for which Quick Start provides training cover a broad spectrum of technology and demand great latitude in training capabilities. Quick Start links the unmet needs of new, expanding, and existing industries to the accessible and divergent training facilities and capabilities of the Technical College System of Georgia (TCSG). These resources, plus the provision of Quick Start consultants with appropriate expertise, enable Georgia's new, expanding, and existing industries to develop a trained workforce in the shortest possible time. The offering of such assistance attracts new industries to Georgia and retains existing and expanding industries within our state.

Because of the wide variation in training needs for the various industries which Georgia is attempting to attract and/or encourage to expand within the state, it is necessary to have a policy that establishes parameters within which the Quick Start program should be operated. This policy provides the latitude needed to enable the training of these industries' potential employees at the most logical training site. Assignment of such training shall be based on such elements as location, type of training required, and other pertinent factors.

Since the scope, magnitude, and training levels vary significantly among services, flexibility must be maintained to ensure compatibility between the program and industry training needs. Also, controls must be established to ensure Quick Start resources are prudently utilized. Furthermore, because each program must be sufficiently planned, organized, and conducted to ensure efficiency and effectiveness toward these ends, the following policy is directed.
